BLOOD FLOW MONITORING SYSTEM

Discover direct vessel monitoring.

Doppler

BLOOD FLOW MONITORING SYSTEM

The Doppler Blood Flow Monitoring System gives you a way to directly monitor the target vessel, enabling early indication of free flap failure.

IMPLANTABLE

The Doppler flow probe attaches directly to the target vessel, providing a precise means of blood flow monitoring without interference from neighboring vessels or tissues.

CONTINUOUS

Monitoring with the Doppler is continuous, so loss of patency or thrombosis can be detected immediately. Immediate detection allows immediate intervention.

CLEAR

With both audio and visual confirmation, signal level is easy to interpret—for both the clinician and the healthcare staff.

COOK-SWARTZ DOPPLER PROBE

Implantable 20 MHz Probe

Provides a continuous means of direct vessel monitoring of microvascular anastomoses.

Silicone Cuff

Secures the Doppler crystal to the vessel. The crystal is safely disengaged from the cuff with approximately 0.1 lb of force when monitoring is complete.

CONFORMA™ DOPPLER SHAPABLE PROBE

Shapable Probe

Permits manipulation of the probe shaft to access difficult-to-reach vasculature.

DOPPLER BLOOD FLOW MONITOR

Rechargeable Battery

Lithium ion battery permits portable monitoring.

Dual Channels

Allows monitoring of two sites; ideal for bilateral reconstructive cases or for monitoring both arterial and venous flow.
